WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, March 27—1:30 P. M.

To Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

The following official reports of operations of the Army of the Potomac on Saturday have been received this morning.

No movements have been made on either side before Richmond or Petersburg since Saturday night.

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, 10:30 A. M., Monday, March 27.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Second Corps.—Killed, 91; wounded, 462; missing, 217.

Sixth Corps.—Killed, 47; wounded, 401; missing, 30.

Ninth Corps.—Killed, 68; wounded, 338; missing, 306.

Our captures by the Second Corps were 365; by the Sixth Corps, 469; and by the Ninth Corps, 1,049.

The Second and Sixth Corps pushed forward and captured the enemy's strong intrenchments and turned it against him and still held it. In trying to retake this the battle was continued until 8 o'clock at night, the enemy losing very heavily.

HUMPHREYS estimates the loss of the enemy in his front at three times his own, and Gen. WARREN, in his front, as double that of ours.

The enemy brought in a flag of truce for permission to collect his dead, which were between their picket line and their main line of fortifications. Permission was granted.

U. S. GRANT, Lieut.-General.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The long anticipated and carefully prepared rebel movement, which was to "astonish the world," took place to-day, and, I have no doubt, did astonish that part of the world within the limited precincts of rebeldom. A few more such surprises will, one would think, be sufficient to bring the leaders of secession to their senses, and convince them of the hopelessness of their struggle to divide and ruin our common country.

That the affair of to-day has been in contemplation for a long time, and was fully prepared for, is evident from numerous circumstances brought to our knowledge during the progress of the battle and since its occurrence. For several days past the enemy had been busily engaged concentrating all their best troops, and a large number of guns, near the point of attack; had provided an abundance of ammunition, and completed such arrangements as were deemed requisite to enable them to take and hold the desirable position they strove to gain. If they had succeeded in accomplishing their object, they would have severed the communication between this army and City Point, and deprived us of all chance of obtaining supplies thence. We should then have been driven to the extremity of assaulting them in their own intrenchments or abandoning this encampment. In either case, they would have acquired a vast advantage over us in comparison to what they can have while our present line is held intact, and they might possibly have inflicted serious injury.

Fully aware of this, and realizing that maintaining their position in our front will not longer suffice to keep their army together and quiet the spirit of discontent among their citizens, Gen. LEE determined to make the effort, desperate as it undoubtedly was. The place chosen for the demonstration though not, perhaps, the weakest part of our line, possessed advantages found nowhere else along our front. It was on the extreme right of this army on the south side of the Appomattox, and where the shape of the ground afforded excellent facilities for rapidly intrenching and securing it. It would have given them complete command of the line of our military railroad, and perhaps rendered our position here untenable. In short, if success had crowned their efforts, Petersburgh would have been freed from our grasp, and Richmond released from its present precarious condition, for a time, at least.

THE ATTACK ON OUR WORKS.

Having massed Gen. GORDON'S entire command, with the larger portion of Gen. BUSHROD JOHNSON'S, on that portion of our front commencing at the south bank of the Appomattox and extending about one mile south, and supplied themselves with ammunition and subsistence for a long struggle, the enemy opened about 4:30 o'clock this morning, by gobbling up about half a mile of our picket line, and charging immediately with two brigades—COOK'S and RANSOM'S—upon our main line. The attack was so skillfully planned and promptly executed, that before our troops could be got ready for action, they were within our works. In fact, the garrison in Fort Steadman were not aware of their danger until the enemy poured over the breastworks in such numbers as to make resistance folly, and they therefore immediately abandoned the fort and retired.

Once in the fort, the rebels seized upon the guns and turned them upon our men. Batteries Ten and Eleven, two small redoubts close to Fort Steadman, on either side, had to be abandoned as soon as the fort was taken, as had also the lines of works connecting them. Our men were hardly out of these positions ere the rebel gunners took possession and opened fire upon the retiring lines. They next made a dash at Fort Haskell, a large work further to the left, but the garrison, through the vigilance of the commanding officer, Maj. WOODRUM, of the Third New-Jersey Battery, were on the alert and ready to give the intruders such a reception as to make them recoil. The One Hundredth New-York, which was in the fort with the Third New-Jersey Artillery, instantly mounted the parapets and poured upon the shrinking column such a murderous shower of bullets that they did not recover from the shock, but continued to retire toward Fort Steadman. On perceiving this repulse, the rebel gunners in Fort Steadman turned three guns upon Fort Haskell, and for half an hour poured shot and shell into it as rapidly as the pieces could be worked. The gallant WOODRUM was not to be outdone in compliments of this character, but replied with equal rapidity and remarkable accuracy, and the garrison nobly kept the rebel assaulting column at bay with their volleys of musketry, aided occasionally by a discharge of canister into the enemy's midst.

Meanwhile another rebel column had filed through the breech at Fort Steadman, and, turning to the right, was moving toward the Friend House, Gen. WILCOX'S headquarters. Still another formed into line of battle, and were driving our skirmishers slowly back immediately to the rear of the place of entrance. Capt. E. J. JONES, commanding the Eleventh Massachusetts Battery, and Capt. STONE, commanding Companies C and I of the Fifth United States Artillery, soon succeeded in getting their guns ready, and opened upon the jubilant enemy, who was apparently having everything his own way, except the seizure of Fort Haskell. The interruption occasioned by this increased cannonading to the onward movements of the rebels, allowed our skirmishers a breathing spell, and enabled the troops who had been driven from their tents to form and assist them.

GEN. HARTRAUFT'S DIVISION.

Up to this time only a small portion of Major-Gen. WILCOX'S division (the First) had been engaged, but now Gen. HARTRAUFT appeared on the ground with the Third Division, composed almost entirely of new troops. His quick perception enabled him at once to comprehend the situation of affairs, and he immediately disposed his troops to suit the emergency. Capt. WRIGHT, of the Fourteenth Massachusetts Battery; Brevet-Major ROMER, of the Thirty-fourth New-York; Capt. EDEN, of the Twenty-seventh New-York; Capt. MCCLELLAN, of Co. G, First New-York, and Capt. STONE, of Companies C and I, of the Fifth U. S. Artillery, also succeeded in getting their guns into position. As Gen. HARTRAUFT'S division now moved up against the foe, firing volley after volley of musketry in rapid succession, their batteries opened, and the fire from the rebel batteries and our batteries in their possession was apparently increased in rapidity. The scene was terrific beyond my ability to describe, and its grandeur was increased by the occasional booming of guns in more remote works on either side. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written about South Mountain, Antietam and Gettysburgh, I doubt whether the cannonading at either place was more rapid and furious than what I witnessed here for the space of an hour. The rebels were only saved from annihilation by being thinly scattered over a large extent of territory, and as it was, a large number of them bit the dust.

THE REBELS REPULSED.

The concentrated fire of such a number of cannons, and the desolating volumes of musketry poured into their ranks by Gen. HARTRAUFT'S command, although withstood manfully for a time, finally became too hot for the soldiers of rebeldom. Slowly their line retired, wavered, broke, and they sought shelter in Fort Steadman and the two redoubts on its flank. Steadily the Third Division followed them up step by step. Finally, it formed into two lines diagonal with the inner walls of the fort, and charging rapidly, wrapped around it, as it were, completely investing it on three sides, and compelling the rebels it contained to yield themselves up as prisoners of war. Quickly the guns of the fort and redoubts were manned by the gunners of the Nineteenth New-York Battery, and with the guns of Fort Haskell, Fort Friend, and the field batteries, poured a storm of iron hail after the retreating rebels, who succeeded in getting outside the works, and mowed them down with fearful slaughter until they gained the shelter of their own embankments.

THE NINTH CORPS VICTORIOUS.

Gen. WEBSTER'S division of the Sixth Corps had been ordered down the line to aid the Ninth in repelling this assault, but it did not arrive on the ground until the rebels were safely beyond their own mud walls, and our forces all in their places on the front, as usual. Thus, the entire honor of the victory rests with the Ninth Corps, and chiefly with the Third Division, under the gallant HARTRAUFT.

Gen. WILCOX'S division of the corps were all in the works, and none were engaged except those immediately on the front that was attacked. Gen. POTTER'S division laid in the works to the left, and were not disturbed.

Gen. HARTRAUFT led his divisions in person, assisted by his own staff, and by Col. LORING, Capt. VAN BUREN, and Capt. GODDARD, of Gen. PARKE' staff. Gen. PARK'S, the commander of the corps, was not present, being at the time in command of the Army of the Potomac, during Gen. MEADE'S temporary absence at City Point.

LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES.

Our loss was comparatively light, numbering as follows:

	Killed.	Wounded.	Missing.
First Division	30	140	450
Third Division	35	176	29
Artillery	4	13	26
Total	69	329	535

Entire loss, 933. The rebels lost in prisoners alone about 2,300, over four hundred of whom were wounded and are in our hospitals. They carried off most of their wounded and a large number of their dead, but this afternoon our officers turned over to them one hundred and twenty dead bodies found within our lines. One of their officers, who is a prisoner in our hands, estimates their entire loss at 3,500. Among the rebel prisoners are forty-seven officers, and they lost sixty officers killed and wounded. Among the officers wounded on our side were Capt. SWORDS, of Gen. WILCOX'S Staff; Brig.-Gen. N. B. MCLAUGHLIN and aid. They were all captured. Maj. SHORKLEY, of Gen. HARTRAUFT'S Staff, was wounded in the thigh. Gen. HARTRAUFT was reported wounded, but was not hurt. Maj. RANDALL, of the Fourteenth New-York Heavy Artillery, was captured, but escaped in the confusion. Maj. DORRITY and Lieut. POTTER, of the Fifty-seventh Massachusetts, were both severely wounded, and Lieut. JAS. PEACOCK, of the same regiment, was mortally wounded.

THE BATTLE-FIELD.

The appearance of the scene of the conflict, immediately after the battle, was deplorable. Inside of our works, our own and the rebel dead, dying and wounded were scattered promiscuously in the trenches and on the field. Outside of the works the rebel dead were fairly piled up close to our line, and thence to their line they were thickly strewn over the ground. But the sight of the wounded, lying there suffering, was even more horrible than that of the dead. After the battle closed a truce of two hours was agreed upon to allow the dead and wounded to be removed. While this lasted, a number of our officers went out to survey the field, and had considerable conversation with the rebel officers. The latter appeared extremely despondent, and spoke of the affair with unusual bitterness. They evidently hoped to hold our line, and regard their reverse as an irremediable misfortune.

LEFT WING.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LEFT WING ARMY POTOMAC, Saturday, March 25, 1865—Midnight.

To-day has indeed been a busy day for the Army of the Potomac—what with the rebel attack on our right and our counter attack upon our left, and the various movements of the reserves within our interior lines, scarcely any one can say that the day has passed easily.

Viewed as a whole, the results of the day's operations may be safely put down as highly successful on our part, and terribly disastrous to the rebel cause. We have beaten back and repulsed the unexpected and terrific attack on our extreme right, seized a large number of prisoners, retaken our lost position, and inflicted a severe loss on the enemy in killed and wounded. On our left, we assumed the offensive, succeeded in wresting the picket line of works from the enemy, and also captured a large number of prisoners.

The day has been passed in incessant and almost unceasing cannonading and musketry. Charges have been made, and desperate fights have occurred during the entire day. We have enjoyed an unwonted amount of excitement, and the army has remained in constant readiness for any demonstration of the enemy or requirement of our own Generals.

On our right everything has been eminently and decidedly successful. The attack of the enemy, though at first seemingly unfavorable to us, was speedily turned into positive disaster to the rebel army. Our troops have reëstablished our lines, taken nearly 3,000 prisoners, 250 of whom were wounded, and have handed over to the rebels (under flag of truce) nearly 100 dead. But I leave all particulars to my colleague on the right, who, I doubt not, will furnish a full account.

In this wing of the army the operations have extended during the entire day, and at this moment heavy picket-firing is going on in front of the Second Corps. The day has been one of great hardship and fatigue to the men, and the fighting has been severe and obstinate.

As soon as the orders could be issued, the Fifth, Second and Sixth Corps were set in motion, at about 11 o'clock this morning. The Second was pushed forward over their line of works, and shortly after 8 o'clock the entire corps became hotly engaged with JOHNSON'S division of ANDERSON'S corps. Steadily advancing, Gen. HUMPHREY succeeded in driving in the enemy's picket line on to his main line, which speedily moved up to the front, and a desperate engagement took place. After repeated charges, the gallant Second Corps seized their life-pits of the rebel line, and hold them up to the present time.

The Sixth Corps likewise formed line of battle along their main line of defences, and shortly after the Second Corps moved forward, Gen. WRIGHT sent his Second and Third Divisions, and the engagement thus became general along the entire left.

Driving the picket line before them, the Sixth Corps kept quietly on until they had full possession of the main line of rifle pits, taking a large number of prisoners. As soon as the enemy saw that the Sixth Corps purposed holding the pits, their line of battle came over their works, and charging upon our men pushed them slowly back.

Gen. WRIGHT then brought up WERAFOR'S division of his corps, and with their help the command retained possession of the pits. The fighting on the front of the Second and Sixth Corps was of the most desperate character, and the losses in killed and wounded were heavy on both sides. The Sixth Corps' loss is estimated at about 400 killed, wounded and missing. That of the Second Corps will not fall far short of that number. The Sixth Corps captured nearly 500 prisoners, and the Second Corps must have captured somewhere near 600, as almost that number had reached Gen. HUMPHREYS' headquarters before I left an hour ago.

The Fifth Corps was ordered out as a column of reserve. The First Division was assigned to the Second Corps, the Second Division to the Ninth Corps, and the Third to the Sixth Corps. As far as I could learn, no part of the corps was engaged, but they performed efficient service in supporting their respective active corps.

Gen. GRIFFIN marched his division to the left and coöperated with Gen. HUMPHREYS during the entire day. It is a matter of dispute regarding the feet of his division having been engaged or not; but I incline to the latter belief.

Gen. AYRES proceeded to the vicinity of Hancock Station, and halted along the main road for orders. Here his command remained all day, there being no further use for them.

Gen. CRAWFORD also started for the Ninth Corps, but was halted and brought back to the Sixth Corps. While on their way they were halted, and a rather hurried and very informal review was held before the President, Gen. GRANT, Gen. MEADE, and other Generals, besides a number of ladies. This ceremony was a most singular spectacle. Just outside of shell range, but within hearing of the terrific engagement then in progress, this division was forced through the showy parade of a review, not knowing the moment they would be called upon to meet the enemy's fire, a flag of truce flying over the works of both armies near the Appomattox, pending the burial of dead rebels, a desperate battle in hot and bloody progress on our left, near Hatcher's Run, and a grand review before the President near the Weldon Railroad.

The results of the day are briefly these: We have defeated the enemy in his projected breaking through of our lines, taken large numbers of his men prisoners, and proved the strength of our positions. We have advanced our lines on the left, captured quite a number of prisoners, and tightened our hold on his communications via the Southside Railroad. The lateness of the hour prevents a more extended report.

Arrival of Captured Rebel Officers at Washington—Their Statements Regarding the Battle.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 27.

The mail steamer Daniel Webster, which left City Point at 10 o'clock A. M. yesterday, and arrived here this morning, brought up one hundred and ten rebel officers, one hundred and one of whom were captured in the engagements of Saturday, ranging in rank from Colonel down to Third Lieutenant.

Among them are seven field officers, as follows: Col. R. A. Brown, First North Carolina; Col. J. T. Morehan, Fifty-third North Carolina; Col. F. W. McMaster, Seventeenth South Carolina; Lieut.-Col. W. P. Moseley, Twenty-first Virginia; Lieut.-Col. J. S. Casey, Fiftieth Virginia; Major A. N. Gibson, Forty-fifth Georgia; Major T. D. Love, Twentieth North Carolina.

The rest are line officers, and altogether represent forty different regiments, as follows, with Carolina, as usual, taking the lead: First, Fifth, Twelfth, Twentieth, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Thirty-second, Thirty-fifth, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh North Carolina; Twelfth, Thirteenth, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Georgia; Fourth, Forty-first, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixty-fourth Alabama; Twenty-first, Thirty-first, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-second, and Fifty-eighth Virginia; Tenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-sixth South Carolina; First and Sixth Louisiana; First Confederate Battalion.

These officers express various opinions about the affair of Saturday. Some of them are frank enough to admit that it was a defeat, while others, with their usual bravado, assert that they were not repulsed, but having failed in seizing just the point they desired, viz.: the railroad, their forces were withdrawn but none of them could exactly explain the fact of their capture, taking the latter view of the case.

There were in addition nine other officers brought up, as follows: Lieut. C. C. Harrison, 46th Virginia, and Capt. T. P. Fitzpatrick, of Virginia local forces, captured by Sheridan near Charlottesville; Adjt. August, 5th Virginia, captured by Sheridan near Ashland Bridge; Lieut. T. A. Appleberry, 14th Virginia, captured by Sheridan near Lynchburgh; Capt. J. P. Perkins, Virginia Reserves, captured by Sheridan, near Columbia, Va.; Lieut. V. J. Crocker, 7th South Carolina Cavalry; and Lieuts. A. B. Northern and D. Vincent, 8th Georgia Cavalry, captured by Kilpatrick. Also, Maj. W. E. Demill, Commissary-General of North Carolina State forces, captured in Pitt County, N. C. The latter officer was the recipient of some very tender manifestations of regard from a bevy of secession ladies who assembled in front of the Provost-Marshal's office as the officers were brough up. Each one of the fair rebels kissed the Major half a dozen times, causing him to express much delight at his involuntary trip hither.

REPORTS VIA BALTIMORE.

Arrival of Paroled Men and Officers—Fighting Before Petersburgh—Sheridan Joins Grant—Decisive Movements to Take Place.

BALTIMORE, Monday, March 27.

The Baltimore American's special Annapolis correspondent says:

The flag-of-truce boats New York and Manhattan arrived from Varina with 1,319 paroled men, and 60 officers. Most of the latter were captured in North Carolina.

When these boats left, fighting was going on in front of Petersburgh, and reports said that GRANT had advanced his lines some miles.

Gen. SHERIDAN, with his whole cavalry force crossed the James at Deep Bottom yesterday morning, to join Gen. GRANT. Everything shows that some decisive move was about to take place.

No papers could be had from the rebels.

About one hundred of the sick were admitted into the hospital at Annapolis from the boats.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

The Rebel Plan of Attack—The Re-capture of the Fort—The Losses—Gen. Grant Takes the Initiative—The Enemy Beaten at All Points.

CITY POINT, Saturday, March 25.

The result of the engagement this morning was more important that at first reported.

At the point where the enemy charged, the main lines are only 150 yards apart, the ground between being level and free from obstructions, except the abatis in front of the works on each side. At this place firing between the pickets has been almost continuous, and scarcely a day passes without two or three being wounded on our side, at least.

This part of the line has been occupied by the Third Brigade of the First Division of the Ninth Corps, Gen. MCLAUGHLIN commanding. He has often expressed his ability to break through the enemy's lines here, and only yesterday he showed how it could be done to some visitors who were inspecting the works.

This morning four divisions of the enemy were massed in the rear of their line, under the command of Gen. TERRY, who was appointed to lead the charge. These troops consisted of BUSHROD JOHNSON'S, WALKER'S, EVANS' and GAINS' divisions of Gen GORDON'S corps.

At 5 A. M. the charge was made, and the time occupied in crossing the space between the lines, cutting down the abbatis, and getting to the rear of the fort, was the work of only a few minutes. Here they formed in line of battle, brigade front, and while one portion advanced on the fort, the other swept the right in toward the Appomatox, expecting to flank and capture the whole line to the river. The latter party were met by the Seventeenth Michigan and driven back, after some hard fighting. The force that attacked the fort were repulsed by the garrison several times, but their numbers being so superior to ours they finally overpowered and took prisoners nearly all who were in it. They at once sent the captured over the works to their line, and many succeeded in getting away and running back, the guard being very small that had charge of them.

Gen. WILCOX moved up part of his command from the right to the scene of action, and soon drove the enemy from the line on the right of the fort. Gen. HARTRAUFT'S division, lying partly in reserve and partly on the line to the left, was quickly on the ground with reinforcements, and at once assaulted the fort in turn from the rear, which the rebels seemed determined to hold at all hazards. Three repeated charges were made, and after that the fighting here was over—the "Johnnies" laying down their arms and surrendering.

To the left of Fort Steadman is located Battery No. 11, which the enemy also managed to get possession of, but did not keep it long; and, although they fought hard, they were forced to relinquish it.

Col. MCLAUGHLIN, commanding the brigade occupying this part of the line, was among the captured. Our loss in killed, wounded and prisoners is believed to be about five hundred, over one-third of whom are probably prisoners.

It was at first reported that the rebels had carried off three mortars, but this proves to have been a mistake. They took one over the side of the fort, but in their haste to get back to their lines they dropped it within a few yards of the breastworks, from which place it will be brought in to-night.

The loss of the enemy is much heavier than ours. Their dead and wounded number more than double ours, while we have over 1,800 prisoners, among them about 40 officers.

The rebel Gen. TERRY, who commanded the assault, is reported by prisoners to have been killed in the hottest part of the fight, and to this they attribute the failure of the movement.

Gen. HARTRAUFT was reported badly wounded, but he is entirely unhurt. He was on the field at 1 o'clock arranging a flag of truce at the request of Gen. GORDON, to bury the dead and care for the wounded. The time agreed upon for this was to be from 2 to 4 P. M. The works on both sides were lined with soldiers watching the proceedings.

The Third Maryland, Capt CARTH commanding, and the One Hundredth Pennsylvania Volunteers are highly spoken of for their bravery on the occasion.

Five stands of colors were taken by Gen. WILCOX'S division; Capt. JOHNSON, of the Fifth Virginia, Private J. B. CHAMBERS, of the First Virginia, and Corp. M. D. DENNIS, each taking one.

It seems the enemy believed that Gen. GRANT had sent away a portion of this army to aid SHERMAN, and that in consequence of this, our lines were very weak, and could easily be broken. In this they have found out to their cost that they were sadly mistaken.

The Ninth Corps have in this affair paid the rebels back for their defeat at the explosion of the Petersburgh mine, and henceforth they will be held in as high esteem by them as any other in our army.

CITY POINT, Va., Saturday, March 25—P. M.

After the engagement between the enemy and the Ninth Corps, this morning, orders were given for the Sixth Corps to make an attack on the left of the line in front of Fort Fisher.

The Third Division, Gen. SEDGWICK commanding, was selected as the assaulting column, and shortly after noon the line of battle was formed, and the order to advance given. In a short time our men had possession of the entire line of rifle-pits of the enemy, nearly all the occupants having been made prisoners.

Our loss in the affair was very trifling. Over 500 prisoners were brought in as the result of the engagement.

Still another fight took place at Hatcher's Run, in which the Second Corps was engaged. The attack was made about dark. Over 400 prisoners fell into our hands on this ground, making in all to-day about 2,875. Among them are nearly 100 commissioned officers, the highest in rank being Colonel. This does not include the rebel wounded in hospital, whose numbers are considerable. These men seemed, as they passed along, completely satisfied with their position, no doubt anticipating a larger supply of rations than they have been getting for some time past.

It is reported that Gen. GORDON was seen urging his men to fight, and at times swearing at them for their cowardice, ending with the exclamation: "By G—d, just as I thought; the men won't fight!" After which he left and was not afterward seen.

Lieut. NYE, of the Fourteenth Massachusetts Battery, was killed while fighting his guns. He was ordered to surrender, but refused, and six bullets were found to have entered his body. He was a gallant officer, and much esteemed by his men.

Col. PENNYPACKER, of the One Hundredth Pennsylvania, was killed while gallantly leading his men in the action. This regiment is composed mostly of new men, and are credited with having behaved like veterans.

GEN. SHERMAN'S ARMY.

Official Report of His Operations.

Severe Fighting with the Rebels.

Sherman's Loss Not Over 2,500 Since Leaving Savannah.

TWO THOUSAND REBELS CAPTURED.

Sherman's Army at Goldsboro March 22.

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, March 27.

To Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

The following official report of Gen. SHERMAN'S operations since he left Fayetteville have been received this morning.

Gen. SHERMAN was at Goldsboro on the 22d of this month.

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, March 27—11 A. M.

To Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

I am in receipt of SHERMAN'S report of the operations from the time he left Fayetteville up to the 23d inst. It shows hard fighting, resulting in very heavy loss to the enemy in killed and wounded, and over 2,000 prisoners in our hands. His own loss he says will be covered by 2,500 men since he left Savannah. Many of them are but slightly wounded.

U. S. GRANT, Lieut.-General.

The Junction of Sherman's and Schofield's Forces Confirmed.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 27.

The junction of Gen. SHERMAN'S forces with those of Gens. SCHOFIELD and TERRY was settled to-day by receipt of dispatches from Gen. SHERMAN, who was in Goldsboro himself on Wednesday, March 22. A letter from that place says that the scene when SHERMAN'S veterans marched in and met SCHOFIELD'S men was enthusiastic beyond description. The gallant fellows had swept everything before them, and had at last met their reinforcements and supplies at a new base, and after having won new victories, SCHOFIELD'S corps, it will be recollected, was a part of SHERMAN'S army down to the capture of Atlanta, and this reunion under such circumstances was very gratifying.

UNOFFICIAL DETAILS.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, March 27.

A special dispatch to the Philadelphia Bulletin from Washington says:

"A special messenger who left Goldsboro, N. C., on the 23d, arrived here to-day, and reports the occupation of that place by Gen. SCHOFIELD'S forces.

He also brings the highly important information that Gen. SHERMAN formed a junction with SCHOFIELD and TERRY, at Cox's Bridge on the Neuse River, a few miles west of Goldsboro, on the 21st.

The Fourteenth Corps of SHERMAN'S army had a fight with HARDEE at Averysboro on the 16th inst., in which the latter was handsomely defeated, leaving all his dead in Gen. DAVIS' hands, and retreating to Bentonville.

"At Bentonville, on Sunday, the 19th inst., one division of the Fourteenth Corps was attacked by JOHNSTON, and for a while turned back; but on being reinforced, the rest of the divisions drove the enemy back, and during Sunday night he abandoned Bentonville and fell back across the Neuse River to Smithfield, some ten miles west of Goldsboro.

It is the merely temporary success in the first part of the fight which the rebels are boasting over as a great victory.

SHERMAN'S loss will not exceed 1,000. The army is in excellent condition.

Detailed accounts of the foregoing, dated Goldsboro, March 21, have also been received.

On the 22d SCHOFIELD moved out to Coxe's Bridge, on the Neuse River, six miles beyond Goldsboro, where Gen. TERRY'S forces were discovered laying pontoons to cross the river, having marched all the way from Wilmington. In a few moments some of SHERMAN'S trains of the Twentieth Corps were discovered moving from Bentonville to Coxe's Bridge, and the junction of the right wing of Sherman's army with Terry's and Schofield's forces was permanently made.

Gen. SHERMAN had notified SCHOFIELD that he would be at Goldsboro on the 22d of March, and he kept his word. Some of his staff were there during that day.

After his repulse at Bentonville, Jos JOHNSTON fell back to Smithfield, to cover Raleigh. Desertions of North Carolina troops from his army were numerous."

The New-Orleans Independent of the 17th has the following:

"A lady, in whom implicit confidence is placed, and who arrived here last week from Mobile, states that when she left that city, all appearances indicated that it was being evacuated by the rebel troops. Information has since been received here which would confirm the correctness of this opinion. The report of its evacuation is also credited by military authorities here. It matters very little whether Mobile be evacuated or not—whenever the Federals want the city, they will march on it and take possession."

The property of J. P. BENJAMIN and JOHN SLIDELL in New-Orleans had been confiscated in the United States District Court, as forfeit to the United States.

The New-Orleans Times learns that Gen. BAILEY, with about 1,000 cavalry, made an advance from Baton Rouge toward Clinton, a few days since. He had several slight skirmishes with the rebels thereabout, and killed two and captured four. In the meantime, our forces lost 11 in all, thirteen wagons, when both belligerents separated, each side probably being satisfied.

Fire in Utica.

FROM HAYTI.

Terrible Disaster in Hayti—Conflagration at Port-au-Prince—Four Hundred Houses Burned.

By arrival at this port yesterday morning, from Port-au-Prince, of the bark Angler, we have details of a fearful conflagration in that city.

On the 26th of February last, at the close of the carnival, there was to have been a performance in the evening at the theatre, but in lighting the lamps, through some carelessness, the scenery caught fire. The building was soon destroyed, and the flames spread from house to house, until four hundred houses were destroyed, involving a loss of forty to fifty millions of Haytian dollars, and depriving hundreds of persons of their homes. The fire, though lasting only six hours, destroyed the most active business part of the city. There were but a few fire engines, and such a scarcity of axes that hardly anything could be done to arrest the progress of the flames.

The consternation of the people was great for several days after the fire. The city was patroled by guards. The Government is taking measures to assist the sufferers, and a general subscription has been opened for their benefit.

FROM HAVANA.

Movements of the Rebel Steamer Owl.

HAVANA, Wednesday, March 22.

The items of interest seems to be in regard to the pirate steamer Owl. She came in a short time since, reporting seven days from Nassau, hoisted no flag, and refused to give either crew or passenger list. She was therefore detained by the authorities till yesterday. The cause of her long passage to this port was that she landed two persons on the North Carolina coast at Little River, one of them a member of the British Parliament from Ireland, and dressed in the old-fashioned style of an Irish Squire, high-top boots, &c.

Gen. PARSON and secretary came in her. She had one hundred and twenty-five men, and cannon and ammunition in her hold.

Yesterday the United States gunboat Cherokee came in from Key West, and left in the afternoon. The Owl left about half an hour later, and in about half an hour thereafter, a Spanish steamer-of-war went out. This was the foundation for a rumor that spread for a short time, that the Owl was going to board and capture the Cherokee, and that the Spanish man-of-war had gone out to help her, as the Dorchound did the Alabama, (according to some,) and to see that if any fight occurred, it should be beyond the Spanish waters (according to others.) But we soon found that the Owl was bound direct for Galveston.

It was generally known that about forty of the men she brought had left her, some twenty of them having gone to Nassau in the Corsica. Formerly they were mostly of Fior da. The truth, doubtless, is, that she is going to Galveston, if she can, and there fit out as a corsair.

It is reported that the Rebel Gen. PARSON is here to foment a revolution in this island in connection with the Rebels, and to make arrangements in regard to another report, i. e., that MAXIMILIAN is to recognize immediately the Southern Confederacy, and open to them the port of Tampico, or some other, in which to carry their prizes, there to be adjudicated and sold; and that a grand simultaneous sortie is to follow of a swarm of pirates who are to reap what harvest they can, even if it only lasts for a month or two.

March 19, arrived, English steamer Ariel, 4 days from Nassau, 750 tons, with coal; Falcon, 1¾ days from Nassau, 385 tons, with general cargo.

LATEST.

In to-day's paper appears the clearance of the Confederate steamer Owl, for Matamoras, with Capt. MAFFIT.

FROM MEXICO.

Reported Defeat of the French Troops at Chihuahua by Gen. Corona.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 27.

Semi-official advices from Chihuahua, Mexico to the 3d of February, have been received here. An extra of the official paper contains the following news of a French defeat: "The Government has just received authentic intelligence that Gen. CORONA, after having caused the French force, which marched from Durango to Mazatlan, through the Sierra Nevada, some loss, defeated entirely in the village of Veranos a part of the regiment of Chasseurs des Vincennes, shooting in retaliation all those who were not killed on the battle-field. Other advices state that the French forces at Durango advanced to Chihuahua, and on the 29th of January they were at Rio Florida. The next day, however, they returned to Durango, the Mexicans being prepared to receive them.

Marine Disaster.

RYANNUS, Monday, March 27.

Out-Door Sports.

BASE BALL.

The ball-playing season is near its commencement, and the Summer campaign of the base ball and cricket fraternity bids fair to be one of the most interesting of any since 1860, in which year the furor for base ball was at its height.

In Brooklyn the opening game of the season is to take place on Saturday next, on the Star Grounds, adjoining Carroll Park, and the grand inauguration of their new grounds by the Excelsior Club, who have taken the Capitoline Grounds at Bedford two days each week, is to be the feature of the month's doings in the base-ball fraternity.

The champion Atlantics have already organized their nine for the ensuing season, and they will open play early in April.

The Hoboken Clubs intend entering upon active service in match playing at least a month earlier than last year, and this season they will inaugurate play on a new field of operations, viz.: the St. George Cricket Grounds—that locality having changed hands recently, and been transferred to the use of the base ball clubs.

The Athletic Club of Philadelphia, the champion organization of Pennsylvania, have obtained new grounds on Columbia-avenue and Fifteenth-street, and are erecting a club-house thereon, at an expense of $20,000. They will begin play in April, and have invited New-York and Brooklyn Clubs to visit them on the occasion of the inaugural proceedings, which are to take place on the 22d of April. The Mutual Club of New-York intend doing their utmost to win the laurels of the championship this season, their principal opponents being the Atlantic and Athletic Clubs. In fact, there is every probability of an early commencement of an interesting and exciting season of ball playing this Summer.

CRICKET.

A considerable sensation has been created in cricketing circles by the recent forced withdrawal of the St. George Club from their inclosed grounds at Hoboken. They have occupied the same since 1858, and this season their arrangements included quite a list of first-class contests, the club never before having so many members on its lists, so strong a corps of players, or its financial condition so prosperous. They might have secured the grounds at Hoboken for two days or a week, but they required more days in order to accommodate the club. They are seeking new grounds, but they will find it difficult to get as good a locality as that at Hoboken. The principal objection to their further occupancy of the field at Hoboken lays in the fact that their matches did not attract as many spectators throughout the whole season as did one game between two prominent base-ball clubs; and as the ferry patronage is the great desideratum with the owners of the property, it was deemed more advantageous to the interest in question to transfer the use of the grounds to clubs whose games would draw thousands where the cricket matches only attracted hundreds.

The Brooklyn cricket clubs will benefit by this change, inasmuch as those members of the St. George Club residing in Brooklyn will prefer to attach themselves to the clubs playing in Brooklyn, rather than follow the St. George Club to any out-of-the-way place they may be obliged to seek as a temporary field for play.

RICHARD I. DODGE, Major 12th Infantry, A. A. P. M. General.

WAR DEPARTMENT, PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11, 1865.

CIRCULAR No. 6.—In conformity with the Proclamation of the President herewith published, all officers and employes of this Bureau are instructed to give prompt attention to the receiving and forwarding of such deserters as present themselves in accordance with its provisions.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the twenty-first section of the Act of Congress, approved on the third instant, entitled "An act to amend the several acts heretofore passed to provide for the enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes," requires "that in addition to the other lawful penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service, all persons who have deserted the military or navy service, of the United States who shall not return to said service, or report themselves to a Provost-Marshal within sixty days after the Proclamation hereinafter mentioned, shall be deemed and taken to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited their rights of citizenship and their right to become citizens, and such deserters shall be forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States, or of exercising any rights of citizens thereof; and all persons who shall hereafter desert the military or naval service, and all persons who, being duly enrolled, shall depart the jurisdiction of the district in which he is enrolled, or go beyond the limits of the United States with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service, duly ordered, shall be liable to the penalties of this section. And the President is hereby authorized and required forthwith, on the passage of this act, to issue his Proclamation setting forth the provisions of this section, in which Proclamation the President is requested to notify all deserters returning within sixty days, as aforesaid, that they shall be pardoned, on condition of returning to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, until they shall have served for a period of time equal to their original term of enlistment.

Now, therefore, be it known that I, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, do issue this my Proclamation, as required by said act, ordering and requiring all deserters to return to their proper posts; and I do hereby notify them that all deserters who shall within sixty days from the date of this Proclamation, viz.: on or before the 16th day of May, 1865, return to service, or report themselves to a Provost-Marshal, shall be pardoned, on condition that they return to their regiments and companies, or to such other organization as they may be assigned to, and serve the remainder of their original terms of enlistment, and, in addition thereto, a period equal to the time lost by desertion.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand [L. S.] eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President: WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

The records and returns of these deserters will be made up in the same manner as is provided for in other cases for existing regulations, except that it will be noted on the book of deserters arrested, opposite the name of the latter, the fact of his having voluntarily surrendered himself in conformity with the President's Proclamation; and the number thus surrendering themselves to be separately stated on the report to this office.

The Secretary of War directs that no reward be paid for the arrest of deserters who may be arrested subsequent to the receipt of this order by the District Provost-Marshals.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We print this morning from our own correspondents a very full account of the daring rebel attack upon the Ninth Corps of the Army of the Potomac on Saturday morning, accompanied by further official dispatches from Gen. GRANT. The main features of the battle have already been given in our columns. Early in the morning four divisions of rebels made a rush upon Fort Steadman, and took it after several smart repulses. Gen. WILCOX soon brought up his men, and a desperate contest followed, which resulted in the recapture of the fort. The enemy also took a battery close by, but it was quickly retaken. This is about the substance of the affair. Our losses are officially reported thus:

	Killed.	Wounded.	Missing
Second Corps	51	462	177
Sixth Corps	47	401	30
Ninth Corps	68	338	506
Total	166	1,201	713

We have New-Orleans dates to the 19th by the Evening Star. There is very little said about the Mobile expedition, which was, we presume, just getting to work. A letter from Fort Gaines, dated 15th, says: "The heavy guns up the bay are still heard at all hours of the day, and a courier just in reports that the rebels have been driven from three batteries. We are in almost hourly expectation of receiving the order to advance. Transportation has been cut down to the smallest limit possible, and even surplus medical stores will be left behind."

Gen. SHERMAN was at Goldsboro on Wednesday last. His report of operations from the time he left Fayetteville shows hard fighting, resulting in very heavy loss to the enemy in killed and wounded, and over two thousand prisoners in our hands. His own loss, he says, will be covered by two thousand five hundred men since he left Savannah.

The rebel Gen. PRESTON arrived at Havana on the would-be pirate Owl, a few days ago. It is said that PRESTON is to undertake a revolution in Cuba in the interest of the rebellion. The Owl has sailed for Galveston, or some other Confederate port, to fit out for piracy.

GENERAL NEWS.

On Friday, March 10, at Matamoras, there was a severe norther, during which there were seven vessels blown ashore near the mouth of the Rio Grande River, among which was the steamer Chihuahua. She is a total loss. This was her fourth attempt to cross the Gulf, she having just arrived from New-Orleans. The steam lighter Mexico turned turtle just outside the bar. All on board were drowned.

The whole of the first series of the seven-thirty bonds, in all $161,000,000, have been taken by the people in the brief period of forty-three days. The issue of the second series, dated June 15, will go on without interruption, and buyers will get back interest at the rate of 7 3 10 per cent. from the time of their subscription up to that date.

The Havana steamer brings intelligence from Mexico to the effect that MAXILILIAN is thinking not only about recognizing the rebels, but of browing open to their cruisers the Mexican port of Tampico. The story seems to rest on rumor merely.

The United States steamer Shawmut, Lieut.-Commander JOHN G. WALKER, arrived at this port, yesterday, from the Pamunkey River, Virginia, where she has been stationed as flagship of the York River flotilla.

We hear from Port-au-Prince of a fire, originating in a theatre, destroying pretty much all the business portion of the city, and entailing a loss of many millions of dollars.

The schooner Ann Caroline, from Boston for Jersey City, with railroad iron, was sunk off Nantucket yesterday morning—all hand saved.

The United States District Court at New-Orleans has confiscated the property in that city of JUDAH P. BENJAMIN and JOHN SLIDELL.

The Female Seminary at Utica, N. Y., was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. No lives lost.

LOCAL NEWS.

The number of deaths reported during the past week was 468—108 men, 108 women, 127 boys, and 125 girls; an increase of 15 as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 17 as compared with the corresponding week of last year. The mortality by the principal diseases was as follows; consumption, 93; marasmus, 29; convulsions, 32; croup, 18; diphtheria, 13; bronchitis, 10; scarlet fever, 11; typhus, 16; inflammation of the lungs, 36; small pox, 20. The deaths by small pox during several weeks past have averaged 30 per week.

A score or two of substitutes and regular army recruits are all that were enlisted yesterday. The hand-money equalization meeting, at No. 185 Sixth-avenue, met, and, after discussion, only ten wards being represented, adjourned to the same time and place to-morrow (Wednesday) evening. Ward associations are earnestly requested to elect, to-night, each one delegate, with power to bind the ward, for the Wednesday evening meeting. The Fifth Ward expects to secure on its quota some fifty of Col. BAKER'S Hoboken victims, who reside in that ward.

Col. L. C. BAKER, of the War Department Special Agency, desires to say to many persons who daily harass him with appeals in behalf of the "Hoboken recruits," who are are now held in Fort Lafayette, that he will henceforth decline to entertain their appeals. The men, whether bounty-jumpers or innocent volunteers, are regularly mustered soldiers of the United States, who await the arrival of an examining surgeon of the regular army, and can be released from service by the War Department only.

The Board of Aldermen, at their meeting yesterday, adopted resolutions pledging the Common Council to assist, by every means in its power, in encouraging enlistments and filling the quota. The Comptroller was authorized to raise money by the issue of Revenue Bonds, to pay all expenses that have been, or that may be incurred in street cleaning. The board adjourned to Friday next.

In the Supreme Court yesterday, Judge LEONARD presiding, a decision was rendered in the case of ISAAC M. SINGER vs. CATHARINE M. SINGER, denying the motion which was made a few days since on behalf of Mrs. SINGER, to re-open the judgment of divorce rendered against her several years ago, on the ground of adultery.

The city tax levy for the present year amounts to $9,356,498 70; the county tax levy to $6,936,582 61; total for city and county, $16,193,081 31. These are the largest appropriations ever made, and amount to $16 as the share or quota of each man, woman and child residing within the city limits.

Three young adventurers, of genteel address, were committed yesterday, by Justice DOWLING, to await trial for stealing wearing apparel and silver in dwellings which they had entered, under pretence of engaging apartments.

The draft will be enforced in Elizabeth, Union County, New-Jersey, at 10 o'clock this morning, to fill the deficiency in the different wards of the city.

Maj. MARTIN R. DE LANEY (colored) delivered a very able lecture, last evening, at Shiloh Church, on the "Progress of the Government."

The Board of Councilmen had no quorum yesterday.

Gold was 2 per cent. lower yesterday than on Saturday, and Railway Stocks generally higher, particularly on New-York Central, Hudson and Fort Wayne. Governments steady. Money easy. A more confident feeling in both financial and mercantile circles than last week.

The demand for the leading kinds of produce and merchandise yesterday was somewhat brisker. Prices of Pork, Cotton, Whisky and Petroleum were firmer. Flour and Wheat were depressed. Light freight engagements were reported.

At the Live Stock Markets, yesterday, the supply of all kinds of animals was exceedingly limited. This short supply, coming immediately after the sparingly stocked market last week, has caused a still further advance of prices, especially of beef cattle, which sold yesterday about 1½c. ₩ lb., net weight, above the rates last week. Extra cattle bringing 26½c. ₩ lb., dressed weight; from this they sold down to 12c. ₩ lb. for very poor cattle. The average of sales was about 21c. ₩ lb, net weight.

The Territorial Democracy of the United States.

The recent debate in the English House of Commons on the probability of an attack on Canada by the United States, after the close of the struggle with the South, reveals the fact that English statesmen have at last found out that the real power of government in this country lies in the agricultural population. Four years ago it was impossible to persuade them that the "New-York mob" did not exercise a controlling influence on our policy both at home and abroad. In fact during the years 1861-2, hardly a speech was made, or an article written in England on American affairs, in which this was not spoken of as something as well known and recognized as any provision of the Constitution. One might fairly have inferred from much of what one heard and read, that Mr. LINCOLN and Mr. SEWARD were in telegraphic communication, night and day, with our ward politicians, and that no State paper of importance was ever written at Washington without taking the advice of the leading grogshop-keepers and shoulder-hitters of this city. People who disputed or denied this, as Mr. BRIGHT did on one occasion in the House, were received with "laughter, and cries of 'Oh! oh!'"

Mr. D'ISRAELI now acknowledges, with the respectful acquiescence of the House, that

"The democracy of America must not be confounded with the democracy of the Old World. It is not formed of the scum of turbulent cities, neither is it merely a section of an exhausted middle class which speculates in stocks and calls that progress. [Loud cheers and laughter.] It is a territorial democracy, if I may use that epithet without offending the right honorable gentleman opposite. [Hear, and laughter.] ARISTOTLE, who has taught us most of the wise things we know, never said a wiser one than this—that the cultivators of the soil are the least inclined to sedition and violent courses. [Hear.] Now, being a territorial democracy, their character has been formed and influenced in a manner by the property with which they are connected, and by the pursuits they follow, and a sense of responsibility arising from the reality of their possessions may much influence their political conduct. [Hear.] And I believe they are very much more inclined to welcome the returning laborers to their fields, to see around them the products of the earth, and to behold happiness in those households to which they are so much attached than to plunge into the miseries of a new and terrible war. [Hear, hear."]

It is a great pity, however, that all this was not discovered sooner. ARISTOTLE'S Politics and Ethics were certainly as well read in England in 1861 as they are now. "Dear Old Totle," as Dr. ARNOLD used to call him, has long supplied a great majority of the governing [classes, if not all, with at least that portion of their knowledge of the science of society which is most deeply rooted, and exercises most influence on their opinions in after life. So that the announcement that the key to the more puzzling difficulties of American politics has only just been found with his aid, is too palpably absurd to deceive anybody. It did not need any great erudition or even much reflection at any time to perceive that the Government of this country is now, has always been, and must continue for generations to come, in the hands of the tillers of the soil. And it is impossible to believe that the Beresford Hopes and Lindsays, and the rest of the virulent mob—for they were none the less a mob for being clean and well dressed—who have for the last four years been laboring to lash this country into uncontrollable exasperation by their invectives, were not perfectly well aware, from first to last, that the "New-York mob" had about as much influence on the policy of the United States as the borough of Lambeth on those of Great Britain.

Mr. D'ISRAELI could hardly have said a truer thing than that the American farmers are a conservative and peaceful class. More than this, they form a community whose conduct and opinions are, we venture to say, at least as much influenced by the great lessons of religion and morality as any other in the world. They love peace and they hate war. Europe has only to let them alone, to be sure of having nothing to fear from their hostility. But they are men, and have the feelings of men, and if foreign countries do desire to maintain relations of peace and amity with them, foreign journalists and statesmen must not only refrain from meddling with them or their affairs, but must observe, in their comments on them, that decency and propriety which they make it a point to display in their language toward other countries in the old world. Everybody knows perfectly well that if the English press were to unite in assailing French men, manners, institutions, policy, and even women, with the insolence, ribaldry and scorn, which has been poured without ceasing on those of the United States during the last four years, the preservation of peace would be impossible. The same thing may be said of any other European country, with strength enough to manifest honest resentment in acts. The American people are even more amenable to the influence of fair words than most others, but they are also more easily aroused by blackguard abuse, and if the leaders of opinion in England and elsewhere cannot change their manner of criticising them and their doings—we do not ask them to change their opinions—they will assuredly find, sooner or later, that a "territorial democracy" is as sensitive and dangerous an animal as a "territorial aristocracy" ever amused itself in "stirring up."

Railroad Management—State Supervision.

The bill introduced into the Legislature by Mr. REED, of New-York, for the appointment of "General Railroad Commissioners" to exercise supervision over the management of the railroads of the State, so as to secure some attention to the comfort and security of travelers, is hardly likely to get through this session. It will probably call forth some discussion, however, and may form the basis of a similar measure next year, and it is therefore worth while to direct attention to one or two of its defects. It provides for the appointment of three "General Railroad Commissioners," by the Governor, whose powers are described as follows:

"The said Commissioners, or any two of them, may, as often as they shall deem expedient, and at their discretion, or upon complaint in writing, under oath of any person alleging any particular in which the conduct of any railroad corporation, or its agents, is inconsistent with the public safety, and shall, upon complaint made by any number not less than five stockholders or creditors under oath, assigning in good faith sufficient reason therefor, visit and inspect any railroad in this State, its rails, switches and crossings, buildings, stations, works, bridges, engines and cars, and shall investigate the condition of such railroad, and shall examine its by-laws and regulations, &c., &c.; and they shall have power to examine under oath all directors, officers, agents or other persons, and such other witnesses as they may think proper. If upon examination any railroad, or its management, or the affairs of any such corporation, a majority of the said commissioners shall be of opinion that its rails, bridges, switches, engines or cars are in such condition or that its affairs are so conducted as to endanger the safety of the public, then the commissioners may make application to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain such corporation wholly or in part from proceeding with its business. The justice may issue such process and may modify it at any time in his discretion."

The necessity for applying to a Judge of the Supreme Court for an injunction naturally suggests the question, what is the use of the Commissioners? After they have made a protracted inquiry into the condition of any particular road, taken voluminous evidence, heard counsel for ever so many persons in its interest, they make their application to the court. But the Judge is not bound, or even expected, to act on their report. He has to satisfy himself still that their complaint is well founded; and the only way in which he can do this is by going over the ground the Commissioners have already traversed. Having discretion in the matter, he would be bound to hear counsel, and even to let in fresh evidence, so that the proceedings before him would in reality amount to a fresh investigation of the same nature and into the same facts as that instituted by the Commissioners. Why not then authorize the "person alleging any particular defect in the conduct of any railroad corporation," or the "five stockholders or creditors," to go before the Judge in the first instance, and ask for the injunction themselves? It would save a vast deal of time and expense, and for this reason be more likely to produce some result. If, on the other hand, the Judge were compelled to accept the Commissioners' decision as conclusive, and grant an injunction on that, what would be the use of calling in his assistance at all? Why not let the Commissioners issue the injunction themselves?

It may be safely asserted, that any machinery which is created in this State for the reformation of abuses in the management of great corporations, involving cumbrous and protracted investigation, will prove ineffective. In a game of this kind the companies will always get the better of the public. The public has to appear through individuals, and individuals willing to encounter the toil, vexation, and loss of time necessary to prove the misconduct of a railroad company are very scarce, and even when found are apt to get tired of the struggle long before their antagonists. The company has its standing counsel, its hosts of dependents and hangers-on, and a few thousand more or less spent in defence of itself is scarcely felt by the stockholders, while to the managers a little litigation is only a pleasing kind of excitement. And supposing the complainant tenacious enough, public-spirited enough and rich enough to carry his point before the Commissioners, he is hardly likely to be equal to a repetition of the process before the Supreme Court. If one delinquent company were brought to justice in this way, we venture to assert that such "an awful example" would at the same time be made of the complainant that few persons would ever be likely to imitate him.

If it is thought advisable to create a tribunal for the purpose of compelling the Railroad Companies to keep their track and rolling-stock in good order, the most effective plan would be to give it not only the power of inspection and inquiry, but of ordering the necessary repairs to be executed, or the necessary changes to be made, and entering up judgment against the corporation for the costs, in case of its neglect or refusal to do the work itself. Whether this power should be lodged in the hands of the Commissioners themselves, to be exercised in their own discretion, or only after the verdict of a jury impanneled to examine the condition of the company's stock, is a point worthy of consideration.

But it ought never to be forgotten that justice against great corporations can never be obtained by the public unless it be both "cheap and speedy;" and we still adhere to the opinion that if the maximum of their dividends be fixed, and thus all temptation to do their work cheaply be removed, it may be safely left to the professional pride and ambition of the officers, or to the influence of competition to keep the road in good order, and provide for the comfort of the passengers. But the State has unquestionably either to do this, or look after the safety of travelers itself.

Grant and Sherman—The Latest Reported Movements.

The official reports from GRANT and SHERMAN to-day do not essentially change the military aspect either in Virginia or North Carolina. But these reports show that both Generals have had more work on hand than the earlier dispatches made apparent. The battle of Saturday in front of Petersburgh which was supposed to have ended with the terrible assault which regained Fort Steadman for our troops, was renewed at a later hour of the day by a splendid attack of the Sixth Corps on the left of the enemy's line in front of Fort Fisher. The entire line of rebel rifle pits at this point was shortly in possession of our forces, and four hundred and sixty-nine of LEE'S men, probably nothing loath, surrendered themselves prisoners. The Second Corps was ordered to make a subsequent attack still further to the left, near Hatcher's Run, and here the ground which our troops speedily gained by their dash and bravery, was hotly but vainly disputed by the rebels under GORDON, until darkness put an end to the struggle. All the ground gained by the Sixth and Second Corps remains in our possession.

A series of terrific assaults, lasting (with but a short interval) from 4 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock at night—sixteen hours in all—necessarily resulted in a heavy loss on both sides. Our share of that loss is officially known to have been comparatively light. Gen. GRANT'S statement, which is given with a promptness and candor altogether commendable, makes the entire loss to his army 2,080, in killed, wounded and missing. What LEE'S loss has been, we can but in part gather from the two-fold fact, that after 1,888 of his men had been made prisoners, he had to ask a truce for the purpose of removing the heaps of slain and wounded, between his picket lines and the main line of fortifications. Some of our reports put LEE'S losses as high as ten thousand.

The brief abstract of SHERMAN'S movements supplied by Gen. GRANT, shows that the eight days' march from Fayetteville to Goldsboro (which was reached on Wednesday last) was marked by a succession of irregular attacks on his advance, which could only have been harrassing by reason of their frequent repetition. No serious opposition was offered by JOHNSTON; but it was something for that General to put a few score of SHERMAN'S troops out of the field, even if he lost within eight days, in prisoners alone almost as many as SHERMAN has lost in the whole of his long march from Savannah, extending almost over two calendar months. There is probably few more wonderful facts in military annals than that this march, signalized by the capture of such important points as Branchville, Orangeburgh, Columbia, Fayetteville, and by such engagements as those of Averysboro and Bentonsville—should have been accomplished with a loss of but twenty-five hundred men. Yet such is SHERMAN'S ordinary style of campaigning.

THE RICHMOND COLORED BRIGADE.—The grand spectacle of reviewing the first companies of negro troops formed in Richmond came off, as was anticipated, on Wednesday. It was witnessed, we are told, by a crowd of jubilant citizens, eight or ten thousand strong. Two Surgeons from the hospitals where the negroes were recruited were in command. And the Examiner records, with pardonable emotions of pride, that Surgeon "TURNER'S company attracted most attention. They were about twenty strong, and appeared in the square in charge of a sergeant." Furthermore, "they appeared to appreciate their position." They do not seem to have been exactly what might be called picked men. There was, in fact, rather a fine variety of stature, style and coloring observable in the ranks of TURNER'S company. "They exhibited," says the Examiner, "all sizes, from three feet to six feet six, while the complexion ranged from black down to ginger-bread and olive." The parade exercises, we have no doubt, were worthy of the occasion, for we find that the enthusiasm of the Richmond populace was altogether unbounded. This colored armament is doubtless one of the surprises in store for SHERMAN—if he should venture into Virginia.

THE NATIONAL VICTORIES AND THE NATIONAL CREDIT.—It is a fitting corollary to the victories of the past week that we should be able to report to-day that the whole of the first issue of the seven-thirty loan has been taken up by the people. Herein have we new and solid pledges of the faith of our citizens in the stability and permanence of the National Government. Herein, likewise, have we additional and binding sureties that the interest of the public debt will be regularly met, and faith kept with the public creditors. The investments of the people in this issue within six weeks have reached the enormous sum of one hundred and sixty-one millions—a fact unprecedented in the history of popular loans.

MILITARY EXECUTION.—New-Orleans papers of the 12th publish the execution at Natchez, Miss., on the 4th March, by sentence of a general court-martial, approved by Gen. CANBY and Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, of ALEXANDER MCBAIRD and DAVID GEES, privates in the Twenty-eighth Regiment Illinois Infantry, convicted of the murder of Mr. GEORGE W. SARGENT, a citizen of Adams County, Miss., in May, 1864. The culprits were two out of a party of five who, in an attempted robbery by night of Mr. SARGENT'S dwelling, killed him under circumstances of peculiar barbarity. The deceased was between 60 and 70 years old, a gentleman of high standing, and esteemed and respected alike by the citizens of the county and the United States authorities, and unusual interest was taken in the detection and punishment of his assassins. Three of these, however, are yet at large, having deserted and escaped thus far. Mr. SARGENT was a graduate of Harvard College, and had resided much at the North, where he was known and extensively connected. His father was a distinguished Revolutionary officer of the Massachusetts line, Adjutant-General of the United States army at the time of St. CLAIR'S defeat, and the first Governor of Mississippi under appointment of the elder ADAMS.

Amusements.

WINTER GARDEN.—The theatrical tendency of the present day is toward effect, action; and a rapid succession of brilliant scenes and costumes are accepted as accomplishing all that the manager requires. The literary merit of a piece is now of little consequence. It is indeed the last thing thought of. If the work will play itself—that is to say supply a pantomime which, in its quickness, is intelligible without the aid of language, then it may be safely inferred that it possesses the elements of popularity. Such is certainly the case with the new drama of "Corporal Cartouche," produced at this house on Saturday evening. The story tells itself, and is not in any way assisted by the very ordinary dialogue with which it is occasionally padded. Indeed it is a striking illustration of the truth of our remarks that the Corporal himself is most interesting when he is dumb, and only becomes tedious in the last act, where the gift of speech is restored to him. The drama has the usual pedigree. It is derived from the French, and has been adapted by "a gentleman of this city," Mr. S. R. FOX, who somewhat coolly claims the whole merit of the affair. The matter is of no importance to the public. It is enough that a very excellent and spirited drama has been produced in a singularly felicitous manner. With a little curtailment it will unquestionably become a great public favorite. The title rôle is played by Mr. HENRY PLACIDE. The whole interest of the play is centred on the grand figure of the faithful old soldier thus personated. It is to him that a dying General bequeaths a last trust—to protect his daughter, and it is while trying to fulfill this, amid the wiles of rascals, that in a fit of passion he loses the power of speech. Being unable to read or write, he is thus reduced to the terrible necessity of witnessing the perpetration of great wrongs, without any power to prevent their execution. The incident is not probable, but it is eminently impressive. In its elaboration the action is kept close, and, as we have before remarked, the story tells itself. The opening scene is of a military character, but beyond this and the title, it is emphatically a domestic drama. Mr. HENRY PLACIDE belongs to the old school of loud-voiced comedians; and, according to the lights of that school, is a fine specimen of its best member. During three acts his business is confined to dumb show, which was as intelligible to us as that sort of thing is apt to be. We were occasionally surprised at the earnestness and feeling which he imparted in this embarrassing manner. In the first act, as the bluff Corporal he was excellent, and in the last scene, where he recovers his voice, he was powerful, although hurried. A pause of astonishment or joy would add materially to the effectiveness of the scene.

The remaining characters were played efficiently by Miss ADA CLIFTON, a new addition to the company, and a sterling actress; Mrs. C. WALCOT, Jr., an agreeable commedienne, with a charming voice and manner; Mrs. SIDLEY BROWN, who has rarely been seen to such advantage; Mr. J. G. HANLEY, Mr. CHAS. WALCOT, Jr., Mr. C. W. CLARKE, and others. The gentleman last named plays the Villain, and we must do him the justice to say that he does it villainously.

Mr. STUART has put the play on the stage in a brilliant and beautiful manner. The scenery, by the very able artist of the establishment, Mr. CHAS. WITHAM, is splendid. The brilliancy of the first scene—with the distant view of the City of Ulm—is only equaled by the picturesque charm of that which succeeds it—the Village of St. Laurent. The latter indeed is in all respects the best example of scene-painting we have ever seen on a New-York stage.

"Corporal Cartouche" was received with favor, and will we think enjoy a run.

NIBLO'S SALOON.—GOTTSCHALK'S first farewell concert, last night, attracted an overflowing audience to Niblo's Saloon, and was a new proof of the enduring popularity of this virtuoso. M. GOTTSCHALK appeared to be in excellent trim, and played with that rare combination of delicacy, breadth, and power which characterises his style. He was assisted in the duets by Mr. HARRY SANDERSON, who introduced a new polka on the occasion called the "Festive," gorgeously embroidered by M. GOTTSCHALK, and played with startling effect by both gentlemen. Miss LUCY SIMONS, a charming concert vocalist, sang very acceptably, being aided by Signor IPPOLITO and accompanied by Signor MUSIO.

M. GOTTSCHALK'S next concert will take place at the same establishment, on Wednesday evening, on which occasion he will introduce a new patriotic composition.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.
WASHINGTON, Monday, March 27.

THE BATTLE OF SATURDAY.

The particulars of the engagement on Saturday before Petersburgh increase its magnitude very materially. The special accounts of the TIMES correspondents will supply all the details, and it is only necessary to refer to the official bulletin of Mr. STANTON, issued this afternoon, to decide whether there has been any fighting since Saturday. A very foolish and stupid dispatch, received here this afternoon from the Press Agent at Fortress Monroe, and immediately printed in extras, announcing a bloody engagement on Sunday, caused much excitement, and when its falsity was discovered, much indignation. The news it pretended to give, referred exclusively to the battle of Sunday, and not a soul on the mail-boat, by which it arrived, knew a word about any engagement on Saturday morning, though the boat did not leave City Point until 10 o'clock A. M.; neither was a word received concerning the affair from the attentive TIMES correspondents at the front. It hardly needed Gen. GRANT'S dispatch to discredit it.

MOVEMENTS OF ADMIRAL FARRAGUT.

Admiral FARRAGUT leaves to-morrow for Norfolk, where he will remain for a few days, and then proceed to New-York.

SUSTAINING GOVERNMENT STOCKS.

An important consultation was held at the Treasury to-day, between Secretary MCCULLOCH and several of the leading financial friends of the Government from New-York. The matter under discussion is understood to relate to the present condition and prices of Government stocks, and what may be necessary to fully sustain these securities at their real value in the market.

THE NEW-YORK BOUNTY-BROKERS.

The trials of the bounty-brokers arrested in New-York by Col. BAKER are proceeding here rapidly before the Military Commission, of which Gen. E. S. BRAGG is President. It is altogether likely that they will get summary justice done them very speedily.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Monday, March 27.

SHERIDAN'S JUNCTION WITH GRANT.

A number of men from SHERIDAN'S command have arrived at City Point from the White House. They brought their saddles and equipments with them, and will remain there until freshly mounted. It is said that all of SHERIDAN'S forces have passed safely into GRANT'S lines.

THE RE-POSSESSION OF FORT SUMTER.

The President has ordered Brevet Maj.-Gen. ANDERSON to raise over Fort Sumter at the hour of noon, on the 14th of April, the same United States flag that floated over it at the time of the rebel assault, and that it be saluted with 100 guns from Sumter and from every fort and rebel battery that there fired upon Sumter; also that suitable military ceremonies be performed under the direction of Maj.-Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, whose operations compelled the evacuation of Charleston, or in his absence under the direction of Gen. GILLMORE, commanding that military department; and also that the naval forces at Charleston be directed to participate in the ceremonies, and that Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER be invited to deliver a public address on the occasion.

DESERVED PROMOTION.

Gen. HARTRANFT, on the recommendation of Gen. GRANT, has been promoted to be a Major-General by brevet, for conspicuous gallantry in repulsing and driving back the enemy from the lodgement made on our lines last Saturday.

REBEL OFFICERS.

One hundred and ten rebel officers, captured on Saturday, have arrived here, and are now temporarily quartered at the Old Capitol.

RESIGNATION OF SOLICITOR WHITING.

Hon. WILLIAM WHITING has resigned his position as Solicitor of the War Department.

THE CITY QUOTA.

War Meetings—Hand-money Equalization—Another Hand-money Meeting Wednesday.

During yesterday only a few scattering recruits were picked up in the city, nearly all substitutes. In the Fifth Ward three substitutes were enlisted, and six recruits for the regular army, making nine on the quota; in the Ninth, nine substitutes, and so on. Considerable numbers of volunteers were offered at various recruiting stations, but not received for want of bounty money.

Alderman GEDNEY offered a resolution in the Board of Aldermen, which was adopted, promising every practicable cooperation on the part of that body, in the matter of recruiting.

In short, yesterday was simply passed in waiting for the action of the Legislature at Albany, necessary to get at the city portion of the thirty million loan, and thus to get the machinery of the County Bounty Committee once more in motion.

We are informed that the Fifth Ward recruiting authorities have ascertained the residences in that ward of about fifty of the gallows-birds caged at Hoboken the other day by Col. BAKER, and have taken measures to have them credited on the ward quota. They will never be any credit to the ward in any other way.

Mr. BLUNT was occupied during part of yesterday in attempting to induce some of our moneyed institutions to subscribe for county bonds; but the previous subscriptions to the State Bounty Loan seems to effectually prevent the county from raising money for that purpose.

THE HAND-MONEY EQUALIZATION MEETING.

This meeting took place last evening at Capt. COERAN'S headquarters, politely tendered by that officer for the purpose, Alderman RYAN in the chair, and Mr. HAYWARD, of the Tenth Ward, Secretary. Only ten wards were represented, viz.: the Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Nineteenth.

A number of propositions were introduced and discussed. It was noticeable that the sentiment of the meeting was decidedly against high rates of hand-money; several delegates saying that their wards could not raise enough for $30 hand-money. The opinion of the meeting inclined toward about $20 hand-money as a uniform rate, and to be paid indifferently to one year, two year and three year men; the end of the war now drawing so near, that the prospect of speedy discharge brings all three of these classes to a substantial identity. The question of employing brokers was discussed, and though one or two gentlemen opposed the idea, a decided majority considered the business of raising men to have now been left to fall so thoroughly into their hands, that they have become a necessary evil.

While this discussion elicited interesting and useful statements of fact, it however became evident that the meeting could conclude nothing, as only a minority of wards were represented, as even a majority could not bind unrepresented wards, and as most of the delegates were not authorized to commit their wards to any measure. The meeting ended by the passage of a resolution adjourning to Wednesday evening, at the same hour and place, No. 185 Sixth-avenue, at 7:30 o'clock. The resolution of adjournment included a request that each Ward Recruiting Association should, without fail, this evening elect a delegate.

is called to this point, as it is probable that no other public notice will be given than the present one. Among other suggestions made at this meeting was one drawing attention to the fact that the Thirty Million Loan Act expressly forbids the payment of hand money such as that now raised by our wards. It was, however, not recommended to attempt a rigid compliance with this provision, as it seemed agreed that so doing would very seriously diminish the receipts of men from the brokers.

It was also intimated by one of the speakers, that these brokers were much discouraged from time to time, in consequence of Mr. BLUNT causing them to lose their hand-money, by telling the recruit he could keep it himself if he chose. A very earnest spirit prevailed at the meeting, and there was a very close adherence to practical discussions.

It is especially hoped that Ward Associations—we repeat for certainty's sake—will all meet to-night and choose one delegate to the Wednesday evening meeting, with power to bind his ward to adhere to the resolutions of that meeting.

The question of draft or no draft remains in unchanged uncertainty, except that Major DODGE'S letter to Mr. BLUNT (printed in yesterday's TIMES) most peremptorily and pointedly insists on two hundred men daily, and faithfully promises to draft if they do not come.

MEETING IN THE THIRD WARD.

The citizens of the Third Ward who feel an interest in filling the ward's quota by volunteering rather than by draft, assembled at 8 o'clock last evening in Mathew's Hall, on the southwest corner of Greenwich and Barclay streets. Mr. HENRY CARTER occupied the chair. It having been suggested that Supervisors JOHN FOX, SHERIDAN SHOOK and HENRY SMITH had proposed a consolidation of the First, Second and Third Wards, with a view to concert of action in procuring volunteers, it was voted that Messrs. JOHN M. COEYER and JOHN P. CROTTY act as a committee to visit the Supervisors named, and ascertain what action they intend to take.

A gentleman thought that justly there should be no draft in the Fourth Congressional District, since it was notorious that the district had been a common recruiting-ground, and had filled quotas for many towns and counties in this State, in Rhode Island and Connecticut, and in New-Jersey; nevertheless he was willing to take hold of the work of filling the present demand of the Government, and thought that no time should be lost.

An immediate subscription was suggested; but as many of the substantial citizens of the ward were absent, it was deemed proper to appoint a committee to visit these gentlemen and solicit their aid in raising money, etc., for volunteering purposes, and to invite them to attend a meeting of citizens on Tuesday evening, March 28, in Mathew's Hall, Barclay-street and Greenwich. The chair named the following as said committee: Messrs. John M. Costa, John J. Crotty, John J. Taylor, James W. Packer, and Col. John Cropsey.

It was stated that the number of men demanded from the ward is 161, and Mr. KERRIN thought it easy to provide this number of volunteers, if every citizen would put his shoulder to the wheel.

After desultory discussion the meeting adjourned to this evening at 8 o'clock.

MEETING IN THE FIFTH WARD.

The Fifth Ward Volunteering Committee met at 8 o'clock last evening at LAIRD'S Fifth Ward Hotel, and listened to the reports of Maj. HAGGERTY and others concerning the progress of volunteering, and the prospect which the ward has of escaping the draft. The committee appear to have been very active, and thus far their success, both in collecting money and in finding recruits, has been most encouraging. The wealthier inhabitants of the ward have been visited, and awakened to the urgent necessity of prompt action in rendering their aid in the volunteering movement; and there has been a disposition shown generally by the rich men of the ward to cordially cooperate with their neighbors of the under ten in the patriotic work of filling the quota; and the committee now assure their fellow-citizens that if every man will at once contribute according to his means the exchequer need not run low, and the Fifth Ward will fill its quota by volunteering.

It is a noteworthy circumstance that thus far a large part of the money which has been contributed toward the payment of hand-money in this ward has been given by gentlemen who are exempt and have no relatives that are liable to conscription.

At the ward recruiting-office, No. 109 Hudson-street, Col. M. C. MURPHY will make known the amount of the ward bounty and hand money.

TWENTY-SECOND WARD.

The Finance and Executive Committees of the Twenty-second Ward will meet this evening at the corner of Forty-seventh-street and Broadway, when a prompt attendance is requested, as business of importance will be transacted. All citizens of the ward desirous of avoiding the draft are invited to be present.

PARK CENTRAL PARK.

What has been done—What is to be done—Statistics—Details.

As the Spring opens, and an occasional June day, strayed off up the stream of time, is found smiling sweetly out of place among the frosts of March, and lured by the genial influences of the season, it becomes proper to remind our readers of the extent of drives, ride and footpath, in the northern portion of the Park, about its buildings at present, and the many artistic and extremely costly improvements which are extensively in progress. The lake which is to be planted (so to speak) in this portion of the Park, is the course of the great rivers and meandering railroads from the mountains alive in us of God's world, shut in as we are by artificial walls, from the sight of green grass and woodland and water, given to keep a remembrance of God's pure air, and fresh green spot-place in the heavy artery and extremely dilating, enriching, and pruning! preparing all the preliminary agencies, for the glorious toilet in which later all only the Summer's own fair hands can array her.

The zoological department of the park will be more interesting than ever this year. No one can be studied body—little or big—with the birds and beasts, cook with all of nature's singing so perfectly as Bryant, writes of Guinea-fowl; irons miscellaneous looking bear, collies prairie wolf, graceful jaguar-like deer, fox raccoon, or rumpish antlers, tiny green parrot or monkey, or dark—all equally remarkable, as the play Bible says). Constructing and enthusiastic readers, resolution will be finally acted on next Monday, when the park is to be opened to the public. New birds, new beasts, are to be added to the collection. Two camels were sent only a day or two ago, and much alone has already been prepared for it. This wall will do very much to give an air of finish and a reality of exclusion to the Park.

Jack Frost, during the past Winter, dug deeper in any season since the Park was begun, yet the usual Spring adjustments of path and roadway have shown very little damage done by the severe—ages of the heaviest impression on the upheaval. Many beautiful and handsome trees have been set out by the hand of taste, and the Shrubbery will hardly develop so as to give opportunity for mythologizing during 1865. It is the walkers, too, who have almost exclusive use of the Park, and the exceptional refinement of a low noble of the exceptional refinement of a low noble of the Government" Many white persons were present. The lecturer was introduced by Rev. Wm. Howard Bulkley, (colored) on the "Progress of the Colored man in this country—that is a Major in the United States army. The lecturer, after commencing with the past four years, in relation to the elevation of the colored people. His lecture was hardly applauded, and was an able effort. The speaker was a Negro's uniform.

The Best Lachrymatic Prescription.

Col. BARER, of the War Department Special Agency, is daily harassed on the subject of the volunteers who were recently taken at his medical tentshe—machine in Hackobee, and he desires to say to all whom it may concern, that those poisonous, and he pow held at Fort Lafayette, are sworn and requisitive—buster soldiers of the United States, and that he be Freedmen of the Government.

LECTURE BY MAJ. DELAVAN.

A large audience assembled at Shiloh Church, last evening, to listen to an address by Maj. Martin R. Delavan, (colored) on the "Progress of the Government." Many white persons were present. The lecturer was introduced by Rev. Wm. Howard Johnson, D. D., who, he said, had risen by the force of his character to the highest position ever attained by a colored man in this country—that is a Major in the United States army. The lecturer, after commencing with the past four years, in relation to the elevation of the colored people. His lecture was hardly applauded, and was an able effort. The speaker commenced by some telling anecdotes, and then proceeded to show the progress of our Government during the past four years, in relation to the elevation of the freedmen. He then spoke of the Government's policy in the matter of employing colored troops, and showed that the success of the experiment was complete

The property of the company is larger and of more real value than that of many companies whose stock has been sold at $2 50. If any other company, in imitation of us, offers their stock at 25 cents, all we ask you to do, is to ascertain whether our properties are not larger, better, and worth more than any other at the same price, before you subscribe. This company has three different tracts in fee, and three leases, besides half the oil, free of expense, on two leases granted on Tract 1.

See the following notice, from the Philadelphia Commercial List and Price Current, and many others, which can be seen at our office:

THE PHILADELPHIA NATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY.—The success which has attended the organization and management of the Philadelphia Mutual Oil Company, induced the organizers of that company to offer another to the public upon the same popular plan. The Philadelphia National Petroleum Company, which is the title of the new organization, is located on first-class territory, in fee simple and leasehold interests, in the same neighborhood as the "Ashland," "Aurora," and "Philadelphia Mutual," all excellent companies, and under the management of Messrs. Harper, Durney & Co., the energetic and reliable bankers and brokers, No. 55 South 3d-st.

In the organization of this company, every subscriber to the stock stands on an equal footing with its originators, and is on a "ground floor" basis, and comes into the enterprise at first cost.

The whole 300,000 shares will be sold at the subscription price of 25 cents per share, and will realize, in cash, $75,000, which will be the actual cash capital of the company, and will be appropriated as follows: $25,000 will be reserved as Working Capital for necessary expenses and the development of the properties of the company.

$50,000 will be paid for the lands and leases, which have been carefully selected for this company, and are pronounced by experienced men to be not only very cheap, but very desirable Oil Territory, and consist of TRACT 1—13 acres in fee on Two Mile Run, Sugar Creek Township, Venango County, Pennsylvania, all boring land, only one mile from the Rumble Well, which has produced over 40 barrels heavy lubricating oil per day. This is a splendid tract, and undoubtedly contains oil.

TRACT 2—165 acres in fee in Cherry Grove Township, Warren County, Pennsylvania, and is not far from a flowing well. The tract is heavily timbered, and contains coal, lead and iron ore. Several wells are going down in the immediate vicinity, which will show oil.

TRACT 3—15 acres in fee in Sugar Creek Township, Venango County, Pennsylvania, about half a mile from the Sugar Creek Well; this property lies on a branch of Sugar Creek, which is considered the heart of the best lubricating oil district of Pennsylvania.

Also, two leases near Sugar Creek; one lease on Cherry Tree Run, half the oil, Royalty and Land; and half the oil of the two leases on the property on Two Mile Run, free of all expenses to the company.

All these properties are in the very heart of the oil regions of Venango and Warren Counties, Pennsylvania, and are surrounded on every side by a large number of producing wells. This property is second to none in the market as oil territory.

The company will proceed to develop these properties.

The stock of this company is really worth four times the subscription asked. Examine our assets, and see for yourself.

LAW REPORTS.

Criminal Business.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russell.

Several prisoners, convicted during the past term, were brought up for sentence yesterday morning.

Margaret Riley, convicted of petit larceny, in stealing a picture-frame, was sent to the Penitentiary for six months. John Hughes, heretofore convicted of petit larceny from the person, in stealing a five dollar bill from a little girl whom he met in the street, was sent to the State Prison for two years.... Thomas Doyle, indicted for grand larceny, plead guilty to an attempt, and was brought up for sentence. His Honor said that the prisoner had been indicted for stealing articles from the freight depot of the Hudson River Railroad, he being an employe of that company. For a long time previous to his arrest the company had missed butter and cheese and other property consigned to them for transportation, and the officers of the company were now convinced that Doyle was the thief. In consideration of his previous good character they had interceded for the prisoner, and while they desired some punishment to be meted out to him in order to deter others from similar offences, they had expressed a wish that it might be light. The sentence of the court was that he be confined in the penitentiary for one year.... Charles Johnson, a hard-looking colored man, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, was sent to the States prison for two years and six months.... Mary J. Daily was tried for petit larceny, for stealing $25 from another woman. Elizabeth Filton testified that on the 12th of March last she had $66 in greenbacks. She slept with the prisoner that night, and before she went to bed, she counted her money, and it was all there. She put the money in her dress, rolled the dress up, and put it under her pillow. The next morning, when she woke up, the money was gone, and the prisoner was not to be found. There was another woman sleeping in the same bed, and six other persons sleeping in the same room. Only $25 was taken. Witness saw no one take it. The District-Attorney abandoned the case, and the jury acquitted the prisoner.

Anna Constantine, indicted for grand larceny, was brought up for trial, but concluded to plead guilty to an attempt, and was remanded for sentence.

Johanna Grimes, who was jointly indicted with the last prisoner for grand larceny, was tried.

The complainant testified that his name was Wm. Wood, and that on the 20th of February last he went into a store kept by the prisoner, and while there Anna Constantine took hold of him and took $36 from him; witness called to the prisoner to help him, but she did not stir; afterward he saw Anna Constantine give the money to the prisoner.

Susan Luebbin, a witness for the defence, testified that she saw Constantine take the money, and that the prisoner was not in the room.

William Cooper testified that he was present when the alleged robbery took place, and saw Constantine take the money; Mrs. Grimes had nothing to do with it.

The prisoner was acquitted, and the Court adjourned.

Breach of Contract in the Sale of Real Estate.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Mullen and a Jury.

Julia Catley vs. Robert Lewis.—The plaintiff brought the action to recover damages for a breach of contract in the sale of a house and lot known as No. 495 Fifth-avenue. In June, 1864, the plaintiff entered into an agreement in writing, with the defendant, whereby she agreed to purchase, and he (defendant) to sell to her, the house and lot named, for the sum of $21,000. One thousand dollars of the purchase money was paid down, and the lady then proceeded to employ an attorney to search the title. On examination it was found that four feet on the rear end of the lot had been dedicated to the purposes of an alleyway, and that in the deed under which the defendant held, there were certain nuisance covenants, as they are termed,—all of which the plaintiff was not informed of at the time she entered into the agreement to purchase. She claimed that she was to have a full lot, free and clear of all incumbrance. When the deed was tendered to her she refused to accept it, and demanded the $1,000 paid, and $250 for the costs and disbursements incurred in searching the title. The jury, under the direction of the Court, rendered a verdict for plaintiff, for the full amount claimed with interest. For plaintiff, John L. Phelps; for defendant, S. M. Parsons.

The Singer Divorce Suit—Motion to Reopen the Decree Denied.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Judge Leonard.

Isaac M. Singer vs. Catharine M. Singer.—This was a motion made on behalf of the defendant, Catharine M. Singer, to open a decree of divorce which was obtained against her several years ago by her husband, Mr. Isaac M. Singer, on the ground of adultery. A number of affidavits were read on the hearing of the motion, the substance of which we published in the TIMES of Saturday last. After argument by Mr. H. Selden for the motion, and Mr. D. D. Field in opposition, the case was submitted, and yesterday Judge LEONARD rendered his decision, denying the motion to reopen the judgment of divorce.

Judgment of Divorce Granted.

The panic of last week tells upon the present Bank return in the lines of Loans and Currency Deposits, both being considerably reduced from last Monday by the liquidation of accounts and the depreciation of the values represented in the general movement. The Banks themselves, however, appear easier in the Legal Tender Money which they hold, than on the previous statement; which sufficiently accounts for the comparative ease in Money on United States Stocks, and other undoubted collateral, throughout the week. The six National Banks in the Clearing-house now hold $11,549,892 in Legal Tender to $43,786,868 Deposits, and the Local Banks $23,745,264 to $123,178,640 Deposits. The stock of Specie holds steady, notwithstanding the Customs demand of the week amounting to over a million of dollars.

The new week opens on an easy Money market, so far as United States and other unquestioned securities borrowed upon are concerned, and with less distrust in Mercantile circles than in the panic days of last week. There is not much change in the Gold speculation from Saturday, while the Stock market is decidedly free from panic, and higher in prices.

The Funded Stocks of the United States are in steady demand to-day at Saturday's quotations. There may be a lingering inclination in certain Bear quarters on the Stock Exchange to sell the 5-20s. and 10-40s. short again, as the same parties combined to do last Tuesday and Wednesday, with scarcely momentary success. Some of our cotemporaries directly charge that such a conspiracy still exists, and point to a wealthy Stock Broker in Exchange place, as "using his reputation for shrewdness, in visiting bank parlors and insurance offices for the purpose of persuading large holders to sell out their Governments, assuring them that they will soon be able to buy them in cheaper." This is probably so. But we do not hear that the advice was extensively followed.

The New-York Railways were firm through most of the dealings of the day, and the Westerns generally steady at about Saturday's closing rates—Fort Wayne 3 ℘ cent. higher. The Gold Room sales ranged 155½@163¾, 154½@153½ ℘ cent. At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with Saturday afternoon:

Whereas, By the last call of the President of the United States for three hundred thousand men to fill the depleted ranks of the army of the Union, it becomes necessary for the City of New-York to furnish its proper quota; and,
